

Journal Entry for Courage(XP values) by Mohamed Shafi Dayatar

As we all know that semester is about to end and we are trying our level best to complete all the project work of all courses and I find that we are progressing very well particularly with this course. There are various reason and some of them are as follows:

- OutSpoken Team Mates(Everyone with Courage)
- Better Understanding
- Enthusiastic
- Plans well in advance
- Better Communication
- Respect

Due to the above reason we able to make it so far, we are doing tremendous job, whether it is about implementing new design patterns in our project or to study about other design pattern.

Team meetings are properly timed and every team meeting has a conclusion that's a wonderful part of this.

We started implement design patterns as well as making code to work remotely that is implement client and server architecture. Out of 5, two members of team are working on cloud deployments and implementation and two members are busy with design patterns. One member is trying level best to give best in UI. This is the most challenging part it seems.

Scrum and kanban give extra power and make project easily maintainable and we can see progress every week. Without scrum and kanban it would be so difficult to implement, as we would be beating around the bushes. With scrum it helped us narrowed down our task and help us to make better estimations. As every week we finished our goals we were able to see complete picture in our mind.

Our teams does a wonderful job in every aspect. I hope to have a team like this in every courses. Kudos to my team!!!!
